Service-Oriented Perspectives in Design Science Research

Design Science Research Community

There has been a surge of interest in Design Science Research in Information Systems in the last few years. The goal of the design science research paradigm is to extend the boundaries of human and organizational capabilities by designing new and innovative constructs, models, methods, processes, and systems. Scholars from different backgrounds—such as information systems, computer science, software engineering, and medical informatics—are actively engaged in generating novel solutions to interesting design problems in Information Systems.

Call for Contributions

The sixth DESIST conference will bring together researchers and practitioners engaged in all aspects of Design Science Research, with a special emphasis on Service Design. We invite contributions (research papers, demos, and panels) that describe work in different areas of Design Science Research, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Science of Design and Design Theory
- Evaluation of Design Science Research
- Service Design Processes
- Principles of Service Design
- Representations for Service Design
- Service Reusability
- Design for Service Discoverability
- Service Composition
- Innovations in Service Design
- Component Design and Assembly
- SOA Design Patterns
- Development of Service Systems
- Design of Healthcare, Manufacturing, Financial & Business Information Services
